mLogica to set up unit in Pune

PTI [THURSDAY, MAY 05, 2005 09:36:46 AM]

PUNE: California-based leading US solution integrator, mLogica Inc recently announced expansion of its India operations with the opening of a software development centre (SDC) in Pune.

The centre would primarily focus on mobile and wireless technology, remote systems and database management and enterprise application integration offerings, company President and Managing Director Amit Okhandiar told the media.

The company specialises in online business application development using Appeion and .NET Technologies, Okhandiar added.
